

Hi, guys!

I ♥
OIL

ILLUSIONS OF ADULTING

by Sara Zimmerman

Sorry
I'm late...

...but not like getting engaged in jail
and being in a coma is more important than your "emergency," but... OK. So, did you forget how to attach a file to your email again?

Haha, very funny.
Look... Hailey, everyone,
this is serious.

One of our oil rigs has cracked off of the California coast, spilling thousands of barrels of oil into the sea.

gasp!

That's horrible!

Horrible is right!

We're not only losing millions of dollars, but the negative press we're receiving is sending our stocks spiraling downward.

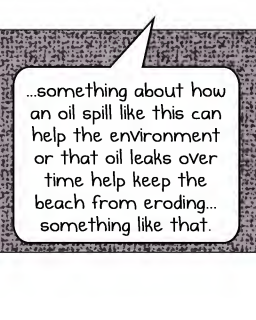

Now, we have to navigate this correctly so we don't create a public relations nightmare that blames us and further degrades our stock value.

Hailey, as our environmental PR gal, we need you to get
'crafty' with our statement
at the press conference...

A white speech bubble with a black outline is positioned in the upper center of the frame. It has a tail pointing towards the top right. The background is a dark, mottled grey with a grainy texture. The text inside the bubble is written in a black, hand-drawn, sans-serif font.

...something about how an oil spill like this can help the environment
or that oil leaks over time help keep the beach from eroding...
something like that.

Hailey, a lawyer is on his way right now to help you with this.

ILLUSION:

We'll blame the oil spill on the environmentalists
or some whales
instead.

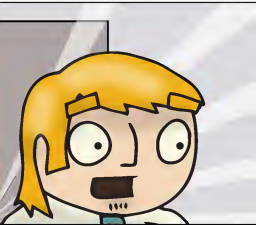

REALITY:

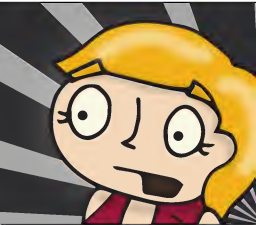

He should be here
any minute...

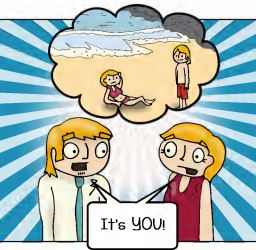

Hey, Uncle.
I made it as fast as I...

TO BE CONTINUED...

by Sara Zimmerman / Unearthed Comics

Have a weird work
emergency story?
Share in the
comments below: